In groups, give names to the heroes and write their descriptions. Answer these questions to help you.

- How old are the heroes? In what way are they similar or different? What are their qualities? What were they doing when they found out what was happening?
 - How did each of the heroes react? Do you agree with what they did? Did they all do the same thing? What did each of them do?
 - What happened in the end?
- 2 Choose one of the heroes. Then, make the first page of a newspaper telling the story you chose. Illustrate it and be ready to tell the class about it in the next lesson.

- 1 Rewrite this paragraph in your notebook using full stops and capital letters.

one of the most impressive prizes that a Jordanian could get is the Ahel al Himmeh award. Many people in Jordan do charity work to help those in need. These people want to build a better community. They are heroes of different ages and from different backgrounds. They volunteer every day to make Jordan an even better place to live in. The Ahel al Himmeh award is given to these heroes for their efforts. It encourages volunteers to keep up the good work and inspires more people to get involved.

Spelling

- 2 Write the correct letters to complete the words.

Linking words in stories: Revision

- 3 Read this story and circle the correct linking words.

Once upon a time there was a rich man. He loved clothes (1) and/but spent lots of money to buy them.

(2) Suddenly/One day, two men told him that they had a special cloth that only intelligent men could see.

(3) As soon as/Before he heard that, the rich man said, "I'll pay you 10,000 pieces of gold for a suit of this cloth."

Some days later, the rich man went to see the suit, (4) but/then he looked and saw nothing.

"Oh dear," he thought, "I cannot say that I cannot see the suit."

The rich man tried on his new suit and walked around his castle. Everyone said, "His new suit is wonderful!"

(5) Suddenly/Usually, a brave child cried out, "(6) But/Although he has no clothes on!"

"Hush, child. Only intelligent people can see my suit," replied the rich man.

"I can't see it either", a servant admitted hesitantly. One after the other, everyone else admitted they couldn't see it, either.

(7) Finally/However, the rich man could see that the little child was right.

Guided writing

4 Use the linking words in the box to complete the paragraphs. Then, rewrite the story in your notebook putting the paragraphs in order.

Then One day Finally Firstly

"_____, " said the first, "we have to give him his 'suit', and make him wear it. We have to make sure that we are miles away when he does ..."

"_____, " the other said, "we must say that nobody can see us work."

There was a rich man who loved clothes and spent lots of money on them. _____, two thieves decided to trick him. They planned their trick carefully.

"_____", one of the thieves said, "we must convince him that we can make beautiful clothes that only intelligent people can see."

5 Now, after you've read the story, what do you think the rich man's mistake was? In a few lines, write the moral of the story.

- 2 Write down notes. Answer these questions to help you.
 - a. When did you become interested in this sport?
 - b. What clothes/equipment do you need? What are the basic rules: what do you have to do and what can't you do?
 - c. How often do you play it? Where? Do you watch this sport on TV? Do you go to matches? Why do you like it?
- 3 Use your notes to write three paragraphs in your notebook. Use the text as a model.

I started playing beach volleyball last summer, when I went to California with my family.

In beach volleyball there are two teams of two players. The players wear T-shirts and shorts, but you don't have to wear shoes. You have to hit the ball over a net with your hands, but you cannot touch the net. Teams can't touch the ball more than three times before it crosses the net. Players can't touch the ball twice in a row. A team scores when the ball touches the ground on the opponents' court. The first team to win two sets wins the match.

England is full of strange traditions, but there aren't any as weird as Swan Upping. Each year, the Swan Wardens of the Dyers' Company and the Vintners' Company go up the River Thames in six rowing boats. They're accompanied by the Queens Swan Marker. They've got to sail from Sunbury to Abingdon. Their job is to mark the swans they find along the way to show who their owner is. Swans belonging to the Dyers' Company get one cut in their beaks, the Vintners' Company's swans get two cuts, and the Queens swans remain unmarked. Don't miss the action! You can watch it from the river bank.

Punctuation: Capital letters, full stops and commas

Test A

Reading Comprehension

Read the following article.

Scientists discovered that it is possible to change living things – such as animals, vegetables and fruits – by working on their genes. Genes are found in the cells of every living thing. They store information about the living thing they are part of, for example, what it looks like and how it grows.

The world's population is growing, and one day, there may not be enough food for everyone. If scientists are able to change the genes of animals and plants, there will be enough food for many more people. For example, potatoes cannot grow in very cold places. However, some living things, like certain fish, do live in extremely cold places without being harmed. If scientists can find the genes that help these fish to survive, they might be able to transfer the genes to potatoes. Then potatoes could grow in very cold places. This would mean there is food for more people around the world.

However, some people think that changing genes in living things is not a good idea. They argue that there may be risks that we do not know about which might affect our health and environment. What do you think?

1 Suggest a good title for the article. (2 marks)

Test B

Reading Comprehension

Read the following article about Arab buildings.

Arab buildings are famous for certain special features. These include the use of light, geometry and water.

Light is an important feature in Islamic design. It shines down onto the special geometric patterns that can be found inside many Arab buildings. These patterns are usually created using basic shapes that are repeated hundreds of times to make one big piece of art.

Outside in the courtyards of many Arab buildings, there are fountains. Water symbolises life. It is also an important reminder of cleansing for Muslims, who purify themselves using water before entering the mosque.

Next time you see an Arab building, think about its features and the important tradition they belong to.
